Background

At all times relevant to the Indictment:

1. The Almighty Vice Lord Nation (hereinafter referred to as “AVLN” or “Vice Lords”) is a national gang founded in Chicago, Illinois in the 1960s. There are various “branches” within the AVLN, as well as subsections of those branches known as “decks.” The different AVLN branches are expected to assist one another, collaborate with one another on criminal activities, and answer to the gang’s leaders in Chicago, Illinois, and Detroit, Michigan. Chicago is considered the “Holy Land” for the AVLN, and the Michigan AVLN leaders report and answer to the Chicago AVLN leaders. Some of these branches are the Travelling Vice Lords (“TVL”), Insane Vice Lords (“IVL”), Mafia Insane Vice Lords (“MIVLs”), Cicero Insane Vice Lords (“CIVLs”), and the Conservative Vice Lords (“CVLs”).

2. The Vice Lords have a hierarchical chain of command. There are “Kings” and “Princes” that rule the Vice Lords. Kings are the founders of the specific branch and are to be respected and honored by all branches within the AVLN. “Universal Elites” run the specific decks within an area or city. These Universal Elites are ranked as five and three stars, and only the leaders of a particular branch can appoint this rank. Each star represents how much “work,” or criminal activity, a member puts in for his or her branch. A member can receive up to five stars, which is referred to as a “glove.” Certain branches, including the TVLs, MIVLs, IVLs, CIVLs, and CVLs, also have “Branch Elites,” who can also have five or three stars. A Branch Elite’s authority is restricted to his branch, and his functions include assuring the overall effectiveness of his branch. A Branch Elite can be viewed as a trouble shooter for his branch. There are also “Enforcers,” who enact orders of the Universal Elites by directing “Lieutenants” to maintain discipline within a particular branch by administering beatings or fines. The “Chief Enforcer” is required to adhere to and enforce all commands sent down to him to administer. There are “Ministers of Literature,” who maintain and distribute AVLN teachings and rules of conduct. This literature is often referred to as the “75.” There are also “Ministers of Command,” who ensure that AVLN members follow the chain of command and through whom orders are passed. There are “Secretaries,” who keep records of which members attend gang meetings, referred to as the “Gathering of Almighty Vice Lords” (“goals”), dues payments, membership, and rank. Other AVLN members are known as “soldiers,” “foot soldiers,” “representatives,” or “ones.”

3. The various Michigan branches of the AVLN take guidance and direction from the Michigan “Board,” which is comprised of the leadership from each of the recognized AVLN branches, including the IVLs, TVLs, MIVLs, CVLs, and CIVLs. The Board has overall decision-making authority for the AVLN in Michigan. The Board approves membership rank, authorizes the sanctioning of members who are in violation of AVLN rules, including “Key 21” (orders to kill), and mediates when issues arise between branches.

4. The Insane branches, including the MIVLs, IVLs, and CIVLs, also have a national board, known as “Al Shabazz” or “El Shabazz,” which includes the highest-ranking members of the Insane branches throughout the country. The Al Shabazz Board is organized out of Chicago, Illinois.

5. AVLN members must follow orders from AVLN leaders. These orders include attending mandatory meetings, or “goals,” and contributing membership dues. AVLN leaders also order members to participate in violence including, but not limited to, retaliating against rival gangs or AVLN members who have cooperated with law enforcement, ordering assaults of AVLN members that are in violation of AVLN law, and directing AVLN members to commit other crimes and acts of violence on behalf of the AVLN. AVLN members swear a “code of silence,” where they promise never to divulge AVLN business. Members agree to “9 Codes of Honor,” which require, among other things, a code of silence, a willingness to kill or be killed for the AVLN, and a promise to maintain unity between all AVLN members.

6. Individuals enter the AVLN by either being “blessed in,” that is by reciting an oath or prayer and being approved of by a high-ranking member, or by being “beat in,” that is by being “circled up” by other AVLN members who then physically assault the new member.

7. The organization utilizes defined membership criteria and rules. These rules are commonly referred to as “literature” or the “75.” Members must know their literature, which includes the principles and commandments of the AVLN.

8. The AVLN also has rules requiring attendance at meetings, the payment of dues, and assisting fellow members in crimes and acts of violence, if so ordered. Only Branch Elites and “reps” are required to attend regular “goals.” Leaders, however, are required to attend “universal goals,” which are meetings where only members with Universal-Elite status are allowed to attend.

9. The AVLN has 22 by-laws, which include, among other things, duties to honor the AVLN and the code of silence, to follow the chain of command, to participate in all AVLN acts, to pay monthly dues, to aid in the advancement of all AVLN enterprises, and to be recognized as a soldier of the AVLN until death. Anyone found in violation of AVLN law is subject to disciplinary actions. The AVLN imposes punishment upon members, generally referred to as “violations,” which can include physical beatings, such as “mouth shots,” “chest shots,” or “circle ups,” for violation of these rules.

Specifically, an act of treason is punishable by no less than a life of misery or death.

10. The AVLN utilizes a variety of unifying marks, manners, and identifiers, including gang signs, clothing, and tattoos, that are specific to the organization. A common symbol of the AVLN is the five-pointed star, which represents the fact that the Vice Lords belong to the "People Nation," an alliance of various street gangs including the Bloods, the Latin Kings, and Latin Counts. This alliance is in direct conflict with the "Folk Nation," an alliance of various street gangs including the Gangster Disciples and the Crips. Many of the AVLN symbols, clothing, and sayings attempt to differentiate themselves from or disrespect their rivals. Other common AVLN symbols include a top hat and cane, the "Playboy" bunny, and the numbers "22 and 12," which represent the 22nd and 12th letters of the alphabet, V (22) and L (12). The AVLN colors are predominately black and gold, although red is also incorporated to show their participation in the People Nation. The AVLN also uses common greetings and sayings to identify their allegiance to the gang, such as "Almighty," "All is Well," "Palms Up," "Truly,"

“A.V.L.N,” “Beloved,” and “55.” Each branch also has specific sayings for their branch. For example, the TVLs use “solid,” and the MIVLs use “64.”

11. Despite the various branches, the AVLN identifies itself as “last name first,” which means that a member is first and foremost a member of the AVLN, and secondarily, a member of his or her respective branch. This is also part of AVLN law. For example, “Key 14” of AVLN literature states, “no matter what’s in front of VL [Vice Lord] they are always Vice Lord first.” This symbolizes that the different branches within the AVLN must come together and operate as one when called upon. Gang members are always expected to exhibit AVLN unity. The various AVLN branches are expected to assist one another, collaborate with one another on criminal activities, and answer to the gang’s leaders in Chicago, Illinois, and Michigan. AVLN literature prohibits “clicking,” where gang members only relate to, and show love and respect for, members of their same branch or from the same geographic location, neighborhood, or side of town.

12. AVLN literature requires that “All lords will adhere to and enforce the Chain of Command at all times!" and "If One Member Fights, We All Fight[.]" Additionally, "it is the unspoken obligation of every VL to defend himself [and] every other VL to the extent of giving their life[,] if necessary" and "[i]f any VL is attacked[,] it is the sworn duty of every VL to overcome his attacker by whatever means necessary."

13. AVLN members must obtain authorization from AVLN leadership before engaging in fights with other gang members. AVLN literature provides, "[N]o representative of the Almighty Vice Lord Nation is ever [to] fight with another representative unless it is authorized by someone with the authority to do so." It is a violation of AVLN law if any AVLN member takes it upon himself to fight with another AVLN representative.

14. Branch leaders must also be available to assist another branch. For example, one of the AVLN's 22 Universal Laws states, "The Chiefs of each branch must at all times have a way to communicate with each other. This is to ensure the readiness and alertness if assistance is needed by another branch[.]"

15. AVLN literature requires extreme violence when retaliating on behalf of the gang. The AVLN's "Concepts of War" provides that "[t]he injuries that you inflict upon an enemy should be considered such a vicious act of terrorism, which the damaged inflicted, cause the enemy to never consider revenge."

16. Vice Lords are prohibited from speaking to outsiders about the Vice Lords or from cooperating with law enforcement. According to AVLN literature, engaging in such activities will result in a member being violated, which includes physical assaults up to death.

17. All members of the AVLN are expected to remain members for life. Attempts to leave or withdraw from the Vice Lords can result in a "beat out," which is a physical beating by multiple Vice Lords members. Those who are in violation of AVLN laws and attempt to leave the gang are subject to a "green light" or "21," which are orders to kill.

18. Although different branches fall under the AVLN, disputes and rivalries arise between some of the respective branches, including disputes about the recruitment of members between branches, as well as power struggles between branch leadership.

19. The AVLN participates in drug trafficking involving fentanyl, cocaine, cocaine base, heroin, ecstasy/MDMA, methamphetamine, prescription pills, and marijuana. Based on their involvement in the gang, AVLN members enjoy connections to drug suppliers and utilize an interstate network to facilitate drug trafficking, including obtaining drugs from Chicago and trafficking drugs out of state.

20. Another benefit of AVLN membership is protection. AVLN members carry, possess, and use firearms to protect drug sales. Members are sometimes assigned to provide security and to protect other members who are engaged in drug trafficking. AVLN members also carry, possess, and use firearms to protect both themselves and other AVLN members.

21. AVLN members often carry firearms, and provide, share, or sell firearms to other gang members. Vice Lords commit crimes with these firearms, including shootings and armed robberies.

22. The AVLN maintains a strong presence within the prison system of the Michigan Department of Corrections ("MDOC"). Incarcerated AVLN members benefit from their membership in the AVLN by maximizing their numbers and increasing security when disputes with rival gangs emerge. Incarcerated members take direction from AVLN leaders both inside and out of prison, who, in turn, take direction from leaders in Chicago and Michigan.

23. Incarcerated members are required to provide proof of their membership and good standing in the AVLN. Members in violation of AVLN rules can be subjected to assaults by fellow members or lose their protected status as AVLN members. At the direction of AVLN leadership, incarcerated members will assault or carry out “Key 21” or “green lights” (kill orders) against other inmates, both within the gang or against rival gang members.

24. AVLN members monitor and verify the status of inmates who claim AVLN membership. If an inmate falsely claims AVLN membership, or if an AVLN member is found to be claiming a false rank, that results in a violation. Depending on the severity of the violation, the inmate can be physically assaulted or subject to a “Key 21” or “green light” (kill orders).

25. Incarcerated AVLN members will sometimes receive financial support from non-incarcerated members. The source of this financial support is often derived from the dues collected at AVLN meetings.

26. AVLN members use cell phones and other electronic devices to communicate with one another, to plan specific acts of violence and other crimes, to discuss past criminal activity, and to coordinate drug trafficking. AVLN members have a strong presence on social media by using Facebook, Facebook live, Instagram, and other social media platforms. They frequently post photos with other gang members, wearing gang member paraphernalia, and using gang terminology.
